Babas Chavadi

Chavadi is traditionally a place where villager's meet, office, or court where taxes were collected, village records kept, disputes settled by the village heads, and visiting officials stayed. It so happened that once in Shirdi, during the monsoons, the Dwarkamai mosque where Baba used to stay, was unfit for providing shelter to him due to its leaky walls. As a result, out of sheer love and concern for Baba, his devotees affectionately forced him to evacuate the mosque and instead moved him to the Chavadi.
